Aiken County teams meet in fundraiser

Volleyball programs from four different Aiken County schools will come together today at Midland Valley High School for Ovarian Cancer Awareness Day.

Midland Valley athletic director Michelle Yeater said the Lady Mustangs and South Aiken varsity volleyball squads will wear teal green shirts for their region match tonight. The game will immediately follow the junior varsity match between the two schools and a $1 admission charge will go to support the Ovarian Cancer Society.

After the high school matches, volleyball teams from Langley-Bath-Clearwater Middle School and Leavelle McCampbell Middle School will play each other at Midland Valley.

Yeater said a representative from the Ovarian Cancer Society will be on hand to help raise awareness and accept donations
